

LABOR MEN TOIL AFTER DAY'S SPORT

Twelve to Fifteen Thousand Gathered for Celebration at Luna Park.

Singing, Sport, and Speeches
Helped Make Lively Day for Workers.

Organized labor returned to its work today after having held yesterday one of the most successful Labor Day celebrations in the history of the District.

The weather was perfect, the attractions unequalled, and the enthusiasm of the crowd unbounded, which made the day all that could be desired.

Luna Park was the Mecca of the union men and their families, and it is estimated that between 12,000 and 15,000 persons visited the resort during the day.

Chief interest, perhaps, centered in the Labor Day chorus of about 600 children of the union men and their friends, led by Mrs. Edie Pay Berry and assisted by the Greater Washington Band.

The chorus did some exceptionally fine work and was applauded liberally. Interspersed among the speeches, the children sang "Labor Day Joke" and "Stick to the Union, Jack," both written by J. L. Feeny; "The Star Spangled Banner," and "The Red, White, and Blue."

Addressed Crowds.

Sam DeNedry, secretary of the Central Labor Union, John H. Brinkman, former president of the central body, and Commonwealth's Attorney Crandall Mackey, all made Labor Day addresses upon topics of interest to organized labor.

James L. Feeny presided over the exercises and introduced the speakers.

Great interest centered in the ball game between the Navy and St. Stephen's, which went to the latter by a score of 5 to 4.

Other athletic events followed as scheduled, with the exception of the tug-of-war between the Columbia Lodge of Machinists and the Sheet Metal Workers, which was scratched on account of the inability of the sheet metal workers to get a satisfactory team in the field.

A large number of women participated in all the events, and their enthusiasm had much to do with the success of the day.

Yesterday, in addition to being the tenth anniversary of the founding of the Central Labor Union, was also the birthday of Henry George, the great labor exponent, and the day had a double significance for Washington.

The Prize Winners.

The winners in the athletic contests were announced as follows:

100-yard dash—Won by Money; Van

MONKEY COMEDIANS TICKLE YOUNGSTERS

Pigs, Sheep, Simians, Ponies, and Dogs Are "Actors" in Gentry Shows.

Gentry Brothers and their 500 animal actors surprised and amused several thousand spectators at their performance in this city yesterday. It really seemed at times as though there was nothing the little animals could not do and the large audience shouted its approbation time and time again.

The monkey comedians were perhaps the most amusing and were obliging in responding to encores. Their barber shop scene, in the last act, was especially good and was hailed with hilarious laughter by young and old alike.

Among the actors who occupied the limelight during the performance must be mentioned "Mr. Perkins," an enormously fat pig, who puts on a drawing room drama assisted by a number of sheep; Tom, an ungainly Simian genius, who does bicycle stunts, plays the violin, and had other accomplishments; Queenie, the elephant who tries to dance the "can-can" and who plays musical instruments with ease; and a number of others, not forgetting the troupe of little ponies who came on and off several times in a diversity of pleasing and intelligent tricks.

The entire aggregation exhibits wonderful ability and shows conscientious training. In addition to the animal actors, the audience divided applause with the Normans, who do a clever juggling act, and several trapeze actors who occupy the center of the stage while the animals are changing costumes.

The performances will continue throughout the week and the animal theatrical season may now be considered in full swing.

FIGHTER OF DENTISTS WILL LIKELY RECOVER

The condition of George W. Bowers, who is said to have become delirious from the effects of gas administered at the Washington Dental Parlor, on Sunday last, and who was struck upon the head with a hammer by Dr. Wunder during the fight which followed, is more favorable today, and the Emergency Hospital physicians say that he will recover. It will be quite a while, however, before he can leave the Emergency.

Mrs. Bowers resents the methods used in subduing her husband. Drs. Leonard and Wunder, on the other hand, repeat their assertions that only by this means could the man be controlled. Pending Mr. Bowers' complete recovery, no statement has been made by the injured man's family as to what steps, if any, will be taken toward preferring charges against the dental firm.

LABOR KNIGHTS CELEBRATE DAY AT MARSHALL HALL

District Assembly, No. 66, of the Knights of Labor, celebrated Labor Day at Marshall Hall, thousands of people making the trip down the river on the steamer Macalester, which made three special trips for the accommodation of the labor men and their friends.

Secretary Martin had charge of the amusement program, which consisted of athletic events, guessing contests, and similar attractions. At night a waiting contest was held, in which several hundred dancers participated.

The executive committee in charge of the outing was T. Sheahan, chairman; E. J. Dakin, J. E. Collins, T. P. O'Don, J. F. O'Mara, John F. Maloney, L. P. Wild, H. H. Martin, and J. J. Deery.

CALVERT HELD FAST.
